Designing Sustainable Coatings

Sustainable Colour Coating

CASE STUDY

Overview

Recently, Painttec was approached by one of our long-standing clients, to help resolve a time consuming and resource draining challenge they faced.

The key issue our client faced was spending too much time cleaning down their paint lines when switching from a clear coat to a coloured coat. This process placed a significant drain on both the budget and resources, so we were petitioned to create a new colour that would be compatible with their clear.

Our Solution

Our solution to these issues was simple, yet effective. To resolve our client's issue, Paintec recreated the desired colour for the client in a way that rather than having to painstakingly clean the clear product from the paint line, the colour can now be poured into the paint line without issue.

The power of working with a local manufacturer like Paintec, means we can work with every client to create a customisable solution.

This saved our client countless hours and resources cleaning their paint line. One of the most important parts of our solution was also the sustainability of our products. During this project, all the drums of product that we supply our client are being sent back for reuse, reducing wastage in every possible way.

The Results

Our tailored solution for our client not only reduced their application time significantly, but also provided an effective product that can be used continually in the future. This solution shows the power of working with a local manufacturer, as working directly with Paintec, our client was able to get a product-based solution that saves time and money.
